CHICAGO, April 29. — Priscilla Higinbotham, whose grandfather was head of Chicago's famous world's fair in 1893, wants her home city to be unblemished by crime by the time of the Century of Progress exposition in 1993.

the Century of Progress exposition in 1933.

And to further her ambition she has become a feminine counterpart of Sherlock Holmes, Philo Vance and Hawkshaw the Sleuth. Priscilla, it developed today, is the only woman in the initial class that Colonel Calvin H. Goddard has under way at Northwestern University's scientific crime detection laboratory.

A striking blonde, dressed in a light green jersey suit and with a notebook under her arm, Priscilla appeared for a Saturday morning lecture yesterday, to take the seat that had been assigned to "Miss Isabel Hall." But the class was temporarily broken up when the cameraman arrived to see the daughter of Mrs. Natalie Blair Highnotham, both high up in Chicago's social blue book.

Since April 13 Priscilla, who was graduated several years ago from the Mount Vernon Academy at Washington, D. C., and who since that time took several courses of study abroad, has been listening intently to the lectures of the crime laboratory staff.

But she is looking forward eagerly to practice on the target range next week. All good detectives, Colonel world.

"You see," she explained to the North American Newspaper Alliance, "I think I have a good start on some of my classmates here. In the basement of our home in Evanston we have a rifle range and my brother Blair and I often compete in target practice.

"Well, we've all been working pretty hard, and I can tell now that it's not so easy as it seems to be a detective, but when the course ends on May 9 I am going to try to connect somewhere in a place that would actually give me some practical experience.

Mrs. D. E. Flanagan

"Welch's smoothed out a difficult problem in our family," says Mrs. D. E. Flanagan of 627 Argone Avenue, popular Atlanta matron and devoted mother. "Like most youngsters, my child did not seem to be getting liquids in the quantities recommended - had to be coaxed to drink milk-cared little for water. Welch's, with its inviting fragrance and attractive color, solved the difficulty.

I think all children love the delicious Welchflavor. Certainly this pure fruit tonic is wonderfully good for them.'

Priscilla says that 35 men in her class teased her at first.

"But now we've learned to get along and they're really kind and helpful."

And, like all good detectives, "Sergeant" Higinbotham has her faithful shadow.

Every morning she drives to class from her home in Evanston, North Shore suburb, to the crime laboratory near Chicago's downtown district.

WASHINGTON. April 29.—(P)—A decrease in all classes of crime, save murder, was recorded for March as compared with February in a bulletin published today by the bureau of investigation of the justice department.

of investigation of the justice department.

The bulletin was released without change despite criticism of it by the Wickersham commission in its report Monday on criminal statistics as containing "a number of weaknesses which should impose a more cautious promulgation" of the figures published by the bureau.

Based upon returns from more than 1.000 cities, containing over a third of the country's population, the bureau estimate said the average number of crimes committed each day had decreased by approximately 113.

The number of murders reported, however, increased by more than one a day, or 37 during the month. The total number of murders reported was 257.

total number of murders reported was 257.

Chicago, with 20 murders and 14 cases of manslaughter by negligence, topped the lists of reporting cities, following by Philadelphia with 11 murders and 30 cases of manslaughter by negligence.

The largest number of all classes of crime was reported from Los Angeles, with a total of 2,685. The nine other cities which reported more than 1,000 crimes during the month were Detroit, 2,067; Cleveland, 1,753; San Francisco, 1,626; St. Louis, 1,462; Philadelphia, 1,275; Washington, 1,230; Newark, 1,175; Houston, 1,073, and Boston, 1,005. LYNCHBURG, Va., April 29.—(P) Clarence M. Ellicock, 25, of Marysville, Mich., fell to his death here this afternoon in the view of a large crowd gathered to greet the second Virginia state air tour and witness dedication of the municipally-owned alroport.
The tragedy occurred more than an hour before the first planes on the tour began to arrive. Ellicock was Fulton Legislator Talks on Local Affairs; Still Advocates Co-operation.

A broadside against the "wastes of the Fulton county government and courthouse expenditures" was fired by Representative William G. McRea Wednesday as the opening address by Wednesday as the opening address by the three members of the Fulton delegation in the state legislature before the weekly meeting of the Atlanta Masonic Club. The other speakers were George Eckford and Luther Still, dean of the delegation.

Mr. McRea pointed out that while the county delegation could not hope to do much toward rectifying conditions that are statewide, due to its limited power in the assembly, it.

to do much toward rectifying conditions that are statewide, due to its limited power in the assembly, it would undertake to improve local matters and particularly the flagrant tax wasting practices of the county.

Representative Eckford took up the tax situation where his colleague left off, each speaker being limited to 10 minutes. Mr. Eckford indicated that he thought the business interests of the state, the larger portion of which are located in Fulton county, were overtaxed. He declared he would oppose any attempt to increase this burden as long as he was a representative from Fulton county.

In the concluding address, Representative Still called upon the people of the county to take an active part in aiding their representatives obtain the kind of legislature they want rather than handicapping their work in the state assembly through criticism.

As a result of Mr. Still's talk and at the suggestion of former Governor John M. Slaton, a member of the club, a motion was presented by Robert H. Jones that the Masonic Club's board of directors establish a legislative committee to wait upon and entertain representatives from other sections of the state when the legislature is in session here as a means gaining good will.

Captain Albin Ahrendberg, Swedish flier, took off from here and another plane left Iceland aboard the inspection ship Odin to fly from the edge of the ice-barrier to Tasioak and to Angmagsalik, looking for Courtauld.

This morning a radio message apparently from Courtauld reported his food supplies were exhausted. Authorities were unable to account for the message, since they could not understand how he could have sent it unless he had established contact with another British expedition which so far has not been unable to find him.

ROOSEVELT, SMITH PLAN CONFERENCE

He assailed what he called "an effort to put the sole blame on congress."

His statement was in reply to recent demands from President Hoover for reduced appropriations and the president's assertion no increase in taxation would be necessary if congress kept expenditures within the budget recommendations.

During the last 10 years, Borah said, congress has cut budget estimates by $414,000,000.

"The fact is," he added, "that congress is constantly being beseiged by the executive departments for much larger appropriations than congress is willing to grant."

Borah pointed out federal appropriations ave grown from $1,098, 602,000 in 1914 to $4,821,374,000 in 1931, despite the "sincere effort to cut down expenditures" by former President Coolidge.

"It needs no argument," Borah said, "to satisfy one that government expenditures are wastefully large and that the evergrowing burden of taxation is one of the great factors in bringing about our present depression.

Other features of the review include an increase of one per cent for February over the same month of last year in production of electric power in the district; an increase of 7.8 per cent in bituminous coal production during March over February; and gains in prices of turpentine and rosin on the Savannah market early in March, which have been maintained.

Continued imports of gold, deposited by member banks with the reserve banks, have provided member banks with sufficient funds to meet an increase in the demand for currency, the national summary reveals that industrial production increased two per cent further in March over February. The number of men employed at factories increased between the middle of February and the middle of March by about the usual seasonal amount. In the iron and steel and automobile industries somewhat larger than usual increases were shown, and at textile mills and shoe factories, where the number employed ordinarily declines in March, substantial increases in employment were reported. Atlanta Negroes To Offer Drama In Music Tonight

Advance sale of seats for "Pearly Gates," the all-negro musical drama tonight and Friday night at the Auditorium, indicates that two large audiences will hear the 300-voice chorus and watch the progress of the play.
For weeks the singers, drawn from nearly every negro church in Atlanta, have been rehearsing for "Pearly Gates" under direction of Frederick Hall, musical director of Morris Brown and Clark universities. It will be by far the most pretentious production ever staged by Atlanta negroes, who are contributing their services for the benefit of the two institutions.

Stage settings and costumes have been prepared with a view to taking the production on a tour of leading cities, with the principal characters going from Atlanta and the choruses to be organized in the cities visited. The right side of the auditorium has been set aside for white retrems and The right side of the auditorium has been set aside for white patrons and the left for negroes. Churches of both races have encouraged the enterprise by taking large blocks of tickets. Seats may be obtained at the store of the Cable Piano Company or at the Auditorium box office just before the performance, which begins at 8:30 o'clock.

mand for relief from it by electing him governor to champion and press government reorganization upon the legislature.

The late extra session recognized that approval by the people and appointed the present committee to study the problem and recommend the best solution of it to the new general assembly in June.

Now, after hearing the explicit analysis of the situation made by Mr. Russell and the courageous confession and commentaries of Mr. Carswell, both of them state craftsmen who have purposely studied the ills and needs of the state, the committee should be able to find its way to a proper scheme of government reorganization. The members of the committee are able and conscientious legislators, and it is believed they have the courage to deal with the problem in their hands with their eyes single to the public good.

Every Georgian with the gumption of an old gray goose knows that the state is overburdened with county gov-erament.

Trough Feeders Fight the Plan.

In spite of all the common sense and civic logic of the proposition to merge and reduce the large overplus of counties, most of those in practically every county who have their feet in the public trough and are fattening themselves at the expense of the county taxpayers, are deadly opposed to county mergers, but there are some notable exceptions.

Think of Abandoning These!

It is unthinkable, of course, that the people of Chatham, Effingham, Burke, Richmond and Camden would consent to abandon the names of those noble Englishmen who so sturdily and generously stood for the rights of the Americans.

Then there is Wilkes, named for that Great English apostle of free speech; and Greene to honor Georgia's favorite revolutionary soldier; and Jasper to celebrate the intrepid sergeant who leaped the walls of Fort Moultrie and recovered the fallen flag; and Bulloch to commemorate our first great governor; and Hall, memories perpetually Georgia's signers of the Declaration of Independence; and Baldwin to halo the fine Georgian who helped frame the national constitution!

Here, then, is still another modern improvement which enables better treatment to be given to more people. First we hailed the modern method of treating varicose veins by chemical obliteration; this has given great relief to many thousands of sufferers who never would or could have entered a hospital and undergone the old and formidable surgical treatment. Boy at Ease. Bryan Untiedt seemed entirely at ease with the president. Mr. Hoover, in his customary easy, friendly fashion with boys had seen to this when they met for the first time earlier in the day. Bryan remarked after that first meeting that Mr. Hoover had made him feel like they had known each other all their lives. When Bryan entered upon his story. Mr. Hoover tered a hospital and undergone the old and formidable surgical treatment. Next came the diathermy extirpation of tonsils, and of that we need say nothing more. He interrupted only occasionally and then only to ask questions. The boy talked easy and well. Of course the president had read how this school bus was hurrying back to Towner filled with school children when it was caught on the slopes of Pleasant mountain by a blizzard and how the driver of the bus left Bryan in charge while he sought aid, and how despite the manly efforts on the part of Bryan to keep up the spirits of his little companions, as they waited in the howling snowstorm, five of the children perished. The president knew this and also how the games and fantastic dances and jumping contests inspired by this boy to keep blood circulation in the veins of his playmates was responsible for so many of them surviving, but he did not know all the details. As this boy told the story, the president is understood to have been deeply touched. Bryan's younger brother was one of those who perished, but Bryan made no more of this than he did of the tragic end of the others.

The time passed quickly as the president and Bryan sat in the Lincoln room. When the striking of the clock on the mantelpiece reminded the president that there was work awaiting him at his office, he looked as though he would rather remain and talk some more with this boy.

They parted then but half an hour later the president, in response to requests from newspaper photographers and cameramen, sent for Bryan to pose with him in the rear grounds of the White House. Mayor Toole wrote Mr. Perry:
"I regret that we have not yet been advised with refarence to the proposed hearing on the petition of the Macon Gas Company for revision of rates on natural gas, your file 18,223.
"This is the third time within a year we have been called on to protect the interests of the city of Macon against this company and this last time they are asking for a revision vithout stating what they have in mind. Our contention is that the rates are already too high in Macon and if the matter must be re-opened we want sufficient time to have an appraisal made of their property so that the matter can be gone into fully.

It is in no sense even to a small degree placed anywhere else. The law has not only placed this responsibility and vested the authority in the commission to determine this purpose, but it has provided proper finances to determine this question, in the way of engineering and other expert skill necessary to an intelligent and impartial understanding of such matters. This money provided for this purpose is paid, in part, by the citizens of Macon, who take the service of the utilities serving them. I merely mention these facts to accentuate them, if possible to do so, the importance to you that this commission must exert itself to the utimost to know that it is right when conclusions are reached. COMMITTEE VOTES 2-MAN TROLLEYS

ences; that substitution of cars op-erated by two men would increase safety, would speed up service and re-satery, would speed up service and re-lieve traffic congestion.

The measure will go to council Mon-day for consideration of that body and it was freely predicted by proponents that it would pass. In the event it does a court battle is expected as Mr. Arkwright declared in his address that the council is without jurisdiction. he council is without jurisdiction, "Not Riding Statistics."

"Not Riding Statistics."

"The public is riding street cars and not statistics," Nance declared in anticipating the long line of figures Arkwright was to bring before the committee in refutation of the arguments that one-man cars are unsafe. In taking the floor as the sole advocate of the one-man cars Mr. Arkwright assailed the contention that one-man cars are unsafe; denied the jurisdiction of Atlanta to regulate them unless they are unsafe; showed staggering reductions in receipts of the company; assailed the move as a reciprocity move to force the treating with electrical workers who are out on a strike with Allied Enginneers, Inc., a company which does the construction work for the company; told that the company has spent $3,200,000 in purchase of new one-man equipment on recommendation of John A. Beeler, traffic expert making a survey for Atlanta; and ended his talk with an arraignment of those who "would force this company to expend $541,000 annually to meet the increases in salaries to satisfy a whim, imagination or prejudice of a few who do not even ride the street cars and, who do not know what they are talking about."

One-Man Cars Assailed.

In presenting the proposal formally to the committee, Councilman Almand said that if the public is to get the service for which it is paying another man must be placed on the cars to insure the safety for passengers and operators.

"One-man cars are unsafe not only for passengers, but also for the operators who are subject to holdups and even murderous assaults," Almand declared. "This ordinance was fostered by me. It was not inspired by any labor trouble, and if members of this committee feel that it should not be passed, I want them to vote against it."

Almand later stated he wanted all Almand later stated he wanted all those injured by one-man cars to communicate with him so that he could have concrete evidence of the danger of the cars to present to council Monday.

Company's Expenditure.

"This company spent enormous sums, $2,200,000 to be exact, in providing the modern, safe and expensive equipment, authorized by the Georgia public service commission," Arkwright said.

"They are operated in every state in the Union and in every large city of the nation. There have been statements that there is more friction between the races, and that the operators themselves want two men on the cars. We have reliable statistics to prove there is less friction among the races, and we were told by operators that they do not want two men, because it inevitably means a reduction in the 65 cents an hour paid to them, the highest figure paid any operators in the entire south.

"Since I became connected with it in 1902, this company all ays has had complaints from the Christian council for treatment of negroes. We insist that operators treat negroes as they should and protect them in their economic and political freedom. Oneman street cars have been recommended after a painstaking survey of the St. Louis safety council.

Increased Cost of $541,000.

"If the plan as suggested is placed in effect, it will mean an increase in annual salary costs of $541,000. The traction service is not making money, as is shown by the figures to date. In 1929 receipts were $129,135 less than for 1928, and in 1930, $458,380 less than for 1928, a loss of 10 per cent.

These are actual statistics.

"If this council wants to conduct a survey our company will pay the traction service is not making money, as is shown by the figures to date. In 1929 receipts were $129,135 less than for 1928, and in 1930, $458,380 less than for 1928, a loss of 10 per cent

"The first quarter of 1931 showed a loss of $176,000 less than for the same quarter of 1930. The company cannot stand this and in addition you propose to add another $500,000 to our burden.

"Adoption and enforcement of this ordinance will mean one of three things.

ordinance will mean one things.

"Reduction of wages for operators; curtailment of service and a raise in fares, which the public should not be called to stand for a useless expenditure. This is a bigger question than helping 150 electrical employes. What if you do help 150 and hurt the 1,000 operators. We are not an oppressor of labor or an unfeeling master. While the committee went through a strenuous day's investigation and prepared to continue its probe at 9 o'clock this morning with heads of the treasury, auditing and attorney general's departments, Governor-elect ussell and State Auditor Wisdom were in conference with Governor Hardman over the 1932-33 budget to be submitted to the June legislatur. No announcemen was made as a result of this conference.

Creation of a law department to the in round figures, $50,000 annually, and which he contended would save the state a similar amount was urged by Harrison, who found the committee receptive to his views.

The comptroller general manount was urged by Harrison, who found the committee receptive to his views.

The committee directed the state auditor to obtain statements of expenses of the university system for 1920 and 1930, including expenses of the board of trustees and visiting committees.

Such a change, members of the com-mittee said, if approved by the leg-islature, would hardly become opera-tive until January 1, 1932, and would not, then, affect the term of the pres-ent attorney-general or that of his assistant.

WASHINGTON, April 29.—(P)—
The culmination of the nation's official welcome to the king and queen of Siam came tonight with a state dinner in their honor at the White House.

More than 50 guests waited in the cast room of the executive management. Presentations over, the company entered the spacious state dining room. Down the center of the long table was the famous Dolly Madison mirror. Eight oval-shaped vases upon it were filled with deep pink tulips and bridal wreaths.

filled with deep pink tulips and bridal wreaths.

Table decorations included also the ruddy purple of California grapes. Two golden standards held ten softly flickering candles. Their light splashed through huge crystal chandeliers upon the White House gold service.

The usual seating arrangement was broken, the president and first lady and the king and queen sitting on the same side of the table. Queen Rambai Barni was on Mr. Hoover's left. i.e king upon his right and at the right of the monarch sat Mrs. Hoover.

The dinner ended a day filled with official calls of greeting. It began with a call on President and Mrs. Hoover at the White House by the king and queen, which was immediately returned.

CATSKILL, N. Y., April 29.—(P)
The federal government moved today to aid the state in eliminating gangster activities in Greene county.

Three federal warrants, one against Paul Quattrocchi, lieutenant of the Jack "Legs" Diamond gang, and the others against persons said to have operated with him a huge Catskill mountain still seized several weeks ago, were issued by a United States commissioner at Kingston and filed here, Quattrocchi is in jail on an assault charge, but the others were not in custody and their identity was not made known.

While Diamond lay in the Albany hospital cot he has occupied since he was shot down near here early Monday, Quattrocchi was arraigned today before Supreme Court Justice F. Walter Bliss on the assault charge. It grew out of an attack on Joseph Coglianese October 13, 1930. Quattrocchi was sent back to the Greene county jail with permission to demure to the indictment by May 11.

Federal agents here to investigate the reported beer racket told Attorney-General Bennett, in charge of the state's investigation, there were 50 speakeasies in the town of Catskill and 35 in the village. The attorney-general ordered 19 state troopers to search suspicious-looking trucks and to question their drivers. The federal men said search warrants would be sought against the places they described to Bennett. The latter said he had learned that on one occasion Diamond's gang shot up the headquarters of a fraternal organization here because the members had refused to the county from the right' beer.

The attorney-general expressed the opinion today that Diamond was shot because he had attempted to "muscle in" on a beer racket controlled by an Albany-Troy group which had a metropolitan area connection.

STRIB TO OPEN TRAINING GRIND IN MACON RING

Geauga Lake Is Selected for W. L.'s Main Training Camp.

By Ed Danforth.

W. L. Young Stribling challenger for the world's heavyweight boxing championship, will prepare for his July 3 fight with Champion Max Schmeling, of Germany, at Geauga Lake Park, near Cleveland.

Stribling today will begin a five-day period of intensive training at Macon to test his condition. He will box three days of the five.

These announcements were made

Macon to test his condition. He will box three days of the five.

These announcements were made late yesterday by Pa Stribling, his father-manager, who just arrived from New York and Cleveland, where he completed arrangements for his son's fight and details of his training. The Stribling party will arrive at Geauga Lake about May 20 and public workouts will be inaugurated May 30.

In selecting Geauga Park, Pa discarded two other localities that were bidding for the enterprise. The camp is within 20 miles of Cleveland on a beautiful lake a few miles back from Lake Erie. It is within a mile of the Bainbridge race track, Pa points out the coincidence that W. L. was born in Bainbridge, Ga., and concludes it is a happy omen. Many who have invested in the horses that run at Bainbridge, however, might contend that it is anything but good luck.

Geauga Lake is an amusement park with hotel facilities, a golf course, tennis courts, landing field for planes, swimming and boating. It is within easy access of Cleveland.
The elder Stribling contracted for the site on a flat guarantee basis said to be about $10,000. The Geauga Lake Corporation will charge admission fees to Stribling's workouts.
TRAINING DAYS.

The Georgian will train on an av-ige of three days a week, never over our, Pa declared. For the last two weeks his workouts will be held at four, Pa declared. For the last two weeks his workouts will be held at night.

"When W. L. was training for the Paul Berlenbach fight and later for Jack Sharkey he worked every day and as a result entered the ring stale, physically and mentally," Pa Stribling said. "He simply cannot stand the usual course of daily workouts. He alittle boxing is all he needs to make him ready for a fight,

"We will make no such mistake this time. W. L. will work one day and rest the next. He will have his plane and his speedboat there and will play golf regularly. We have our plans thoroughly protected in the teontract and will not be forced to take the old-fashioned system of public training stunts every day."

HARD TRAINING.

As to his immediate training plans,

HARD TRAINING.

As to his immediate training plans,
Pa said he wanted the boy to work hard for five days to test out his condition. He will box every other day in Macon and if he seems okay he will be given another rest until May 15. Then he will be taken to Cleveland and brought into shape in

The night workouts in Cleveland will begin at 9:30 o'clock, the approximate hour he will have to face Schmeling. This arrangement will get the fighter's hours of sleep and food settled in a routine that will not have to be upset the night of the fight.

Jaycee Trophies On Display Today

May 12, when the qualifying rounds will be played.

Other members of the committee in addition to Fowler are: Frank Shaw, Duncan Peek, George Yancey, R. W. Tharpe, J. W. Ray, John Armour, Mike Benton, Howard Glenn and E. M. Stubinger.

Wesley Ferrell, of the Cleveland Indians, pitched a no-hit, no-run game against the Browns yesterday. It is very early for such a dazzling performance; pitchers are supposed to be clumsy

This feat might be hailed as evidence that the new baseball with raised seams was a great help to pitchers, as its protagonists contended.

But Wesley counteracted this suggestion by hitting a homer and a double himself. Which does not sound as if the seams helped the other pitcher.

The conclusion is: The raised seams are a great help to any pitcher WHO CAN PITCH.

NEITHER IS SO BAD.

Joe McCarthy was quoted; so they say, when he was managing the Cubs: "I have been a National league enthusiast ever since I was a little boy. The class of baseball played in the National league is better, etc., etc."

Since Joe became manager of the New York Yankees, his club has played to crowds of 70,000 or more twice this year.

No doubt that has made him mildly enthusiastic about the American league. Both leagues are grand institutions and the game of baseball bigger than either league.

MA CRYSTAL-GAZES

"Ma" Stribling is puzzled and just a little bewildered over the future of her son W. L.

"When he got a high-powered car I was afraid he would become an automobile racer when he quit the ring," she said. "Then he bought an airship and learned to fly it and I decided that he would wind up as a pilot. Now he has a speed boat on the river at Macon and has begun playing golf.

"I don't know now whether he will become a river rat or golfer."

And the way she said the word "golfer" sounded as if she

TINY ROEBUCK BEATS RICHARD IN ROUGH BOUT

Indian Lands 'Haymaker' To End Exciting Match; Leavitt Wins.

Rough Richard Daviscourt was defeated by Tiny Roebuck, huge Cherokee Indian, Wednesday night at the auditorium in a wrestling bout which looked like a world's championship boxing contest.

The end was really a knockout, Roebuck crashing his clenched fist to Daviscourt's jaw and then pinning him with a body block when he drop-

Both wrestlers entered the ring with Both wrestlers entered the ring with a mutual agreement that each could strike with the thick part of the forearm. This led to what was better than most fights. It was a terrific struggle between two real giants and the crowd of about 4,000 was in an uproar throughout the fight.

The first fall came in just 45 seconds, Roebuck grabbing Daviscourt with a crotch hold and pinning him with a body block.

Daviscourt was in a rage. During the intermission he paced his dressing room muttering imprecations. He came back and the fight began. Both men used their elbows, After 29 minutes and 25 seconds of furious hitting and wrestling, Daviscourt caught Roebuck with three elbow blows, the last one knocking the Indian flat. Daviscourt pinned him for the fall.

Daviscourt pinned him for the fall.

Roebuck, his bronze face set in hard lines, came back for the third fall and rushed Daviscourt, using front headlocks and an occasional elbow. They worked from a corner to the center of the ring where Daviscourt drove him back. Then came a right to the jaw amid a flurry of slaps and elbows. Down went Daviscourt, It was the third and winning fall.

"I can lick him wrestling or in a fight," said Daviscourt after the match. "I can beat him fighting despite the fact that he was once a fighter. He hit me with his fist tonight. These fellows get mad because I can use my forearm. I use it legitimately. They don't know how. I can lick that Iudian. I would have tonight if he hadn't hit me with his fist."

In the semi-windup, Soldier Leavitt mashed Rex Smith, Detroit, heavy-weight, out flat in nine minutes and Leavitt, correctly called Stone Mountain, put up a great show. He weighs well over 300 pounds. Smith was 220. Smith butted Leavitt and Leavitt launched his bear-like frame at him. Smith dodged and Leavitt skidded out of the ring and hit the floor. Smith could do nothing with him because of his weight. Leavitt grabbed him in a corner with an airplane spin and fell on him for the fall.

In a preliminary Young Rubely pinned L. O. Henry with a Japanese toe hold. A battle royal opened the card.

Eight St. Louis Batters Struck Out by Dazzling Delivery.

CLEVELAND, April 29.—(P)—Wesley Ferrell, one of the leading right-handed pitchers in the American league, today crashed the gates to baseball's hall of fame by pitching his first no hit, no run game in the majors, as Cleveland subdued the St. Louis Prowns in the series final, 0 to 0.

Besides pitching the first no hit, no run game in the majors in nearly two years. Ferrell hit a home run into the center-field bleachers in the fourth, driving in another man, and sent two runs across in the eighth with a double off the right-field wall. Earl Averill contributed his third home run of the season, with one on base.

Ferrell had amazing speed, eight Brownies striking out. He allowed only three walks, while three others reached hase on three errors by Bill Hunnefield. Not a runner went beyond first base, however, and only two balls went to the outfield.

The Cleveland speed merchant won his fourth game of the season, and with the season hardly more than two weeks old, seems headed for a better record than last year when he won 25 games and compiled a record as the most effective pitcher in the league. He has lost one game so far, whereas last year he lost 13.

The last previous performance to could Ferrell's was Carl Hubbell's nehit, no-run victory over Pittsburgh while pitching for the New York Giants on May 8, 1929. The last Cleveland hurler to duplicate the feat was Raymond Caliwell, who shut out the New York Yankees, September 10, 1919. NEW YORK, April 29.—(P)—In his first speed trial as a three-year-old, Mrs. Payne Whitney's Twenty Grand, co-favorite with Equipoise to win the Preakness and Kentucky Derby, turned in an impressive work-out over the Belmont Park oval to-day.

In company with Anchors Aweigh, which also is eligible for the $50,000 stakes, the big colt handled his heavy weight like a real champion. The two colts got away fast, stepping the first furlong in 12 seconds. They were at the quarter pole in 24 seconds, breezed the three furlongs in 361-5 seconds and flashed by the halfmile pole in the good time of 483-5 seconds.

Still taking stride for stride, the two Whitney stars were clocked in 1:012-5 for five furlongs and skimmed by the six-furlong pole in 1:143-5. The mile was covered in 1:413-5 and they pulled up the mile and a furlong in the excellent time of 1:56 3-5.

As the result of the good time trial, of 1:56 3-5.

As the result of the good time trial,
James Rowe, trainer for Mrs. Whitney's Greentres stable, announced he would start his ace in the Wood memorial at Jamaica Saturday.

NEW YORK, April 29.—(P)—C. V. Whitney's hopes of winning the $50,000 Preakness at Pimlico May 9 received another blow today when Rideaway failed to run in the money in the Twoson purse at Pimlico.

Rideaway, generally considered the second best three-year-old in C. V. Whitney's stable, finished fourth in the mile and one-sixteenth journey. First place went to Sunvir, sporting the silks of K. E. Hitt, while a length and a half back trailed the Seagram Stable's Solace with the Belair stud's Flaming third. The time was 1:45 2-5.

SENATORS 9; YANKS 8.

WASHINGTON, April 29.—Washington hammered four Yankee pitchers to chalk up a 9-to-5 victory in the final of a fourgame series today. Three of the fourwere won by the home team and the other was a 14-inning draw.

Lloyd Brown, Senator southpaw, was hit freely early in the game but held the Yanke well in check after the fifth while the home forces launched a counter-attack.

Trailing 4-0, the Senators in the third bunched three hits and two walks off wells for three runs and went shead in Where are the gods that held our dreams, Fame, success and the softer ways?

Where Pan once piped from the singing streams
Of glory, born of the yesterdays?

"Where are the gods?" the cry goes forth;

"Where are the gods?" from souls bereft.

Eastward, westward, south and north—
But only a single answer's left—

"I am the god of right—raw fight—
That leads you into the killing odds;
That leads you into the pit of night;
I have no part with the softer gods;
I have no grip where the quitters fare,
I have no place where the weaklings throng,
I am the God of those who dare,

Of those who suffer to grow strong."

Two Big Tests. TWO of the feature intercollegiate contests of the week will have an important bearing on the entire spring season. One is the meeting of Stanford and Southern California in their dual track meet, and the other brings Yale and Columbia together on the same day, which is this approaching Saturday.

There is one outstanding event inthis Stanford-Southern California contest. It is the meeting of Vic Williams, of Southern California, and Ben Eastman, of Stanford, in the quarter-mile race.

Both have turned in marks at quarter-mile race.

Both have turned in marks at 481-5. Both have shaded 48 in practice workouts. Williams is National A. A. U. champion, but he will have his share of trouble in crowding off Eastman, a great natural runner. The first time Eastman ever ran the half, he ran in only a second back of the record. His first test over this route was 1.522-5, which shows amazing potential speed.

Southern California has a slight edge over Stanford, with the speedy Wykoff in top form again. But it will be quite a party, one way and another.

Yale and Columbia.

Yale and Columbia undoubtedly have two of the best crews of the season. Both are strong. So their Saturday contest with Pennsylvania over New York waters will be another important contribution to sporting history.

history.

Yale had a week's training start on the Blue and White and this makes a difference for an early May turn. But hardly enough to be a heavy handicap.

Pennsylvania's strength is not as well known. There is no question mark attached to the power of the first two crews.

The Two Pennant Races.

The Two the Tankees hope to have must of their full strength back by the first of next week, but that won't help them in their big series against the Athletics. McCarthy's main hope now is that no other earnest athlete loses an arm or a leg before he can clear out part of the hospital division.

The National league race will move into its most important stage when the eastern clubs swing west. There was a time when the westerners found soft pickings on the Braves and Phillies, but this case will be slightly different. And by the time the western hike opens, the melancholy Dodgers should be at least partly out of their April trance. They should still have the pitching and the hitting power to make trouble, once they can toss aside the fogs and mists that have shrouded them to date.

They should still have the pitching and the hitting power to make trouble, once they can toss aside the fogs and mists that have shrouded them to date.

The showing of the Giants on this next western trip will have the most important bearing on the pennant finish. If any eastern club is to stick along with the Cubs and the Cardinals it will be the Giants. If the Giants can't make the grade there will be another western challenger in the next world's series.

MADISON SQUARE GARDEN,

NEW YORK, N. Y., April 29.— (49)—

The old fistic story that class will tell was repeated tonight as the field in the national amateur boxing championships was whittled away to four survivors in each of the eight classes.

Most of the youngsters of the first two nights of battle taded away under the pressure of veteran campaign ers. Class came rapidly to the front and what the tourney lost in color it gained in fighting ability.

The last of the Hawaiians, the team of six that came 5,000 miles and failed to put a man in the semi-finals, disappeared early in the climinations of the 112-pounders. John Keller, featherweight internationalist from Canada and the last half of a two-man team erweight internationalist from Canada and the last half of a two-man team from the Dominion, went down to defeat. And the only full-blooded Indian in the meet, Doc Anderson, Navajo from the Haskell Institute, Lawrence, Kan., was eliminated by Joe Pacino, of Boston, in the 126-pound division.

Pacino, of Boston, in the 126-pound division.

In their place, as the chief attractions, rose a pair of fighting brothers, Ed and Denny Flynn, of New Orleans, who are almost identical in appearance and fighting style but enough apart in poundage to threaten to take home two national titles when the semi-finals and finals are staged here tomorrow night. Ed left-handed and danced his way to an extra round decision over Frank Knauer, Milwaukee welterweight, while Dennis wasted less time and knocked out Max Morris, Georgia Tech collegian from Atlanta, in less than half a round with the same equipment. Morris had won his same equipment. Morris had won his two previous bouts by decision.

The team of New England champs stamped itself as the most dangerous unit left in the warfare by placing men in the first four classes. Henry Surette, junior heavyweight champs member of the squad, lost out in the heavyweight quarter-finals, however, dropping a close decision to Homer Brandes, of San Francisco. Jack Pallat, Cleveland heavyweight and the only defending champion in the tourney, knocked out Millard Sheppard, of Baltimore, in his first appearance, and seems to have only Brandes to fear as a contender for his crown.

A crowd of about $0,000 saw the third night's matches.

cans, too, white thatto carried as own load, nearly all Pelican chances being easy ones.

The Pels didn't exactly knock the cover off the ball, the fifth inning was the only one in which they got more than one hit. Blethen held them to six hits in the seven inulngs he worked. He was taken out for a pinch hitter in Atlanta's eighth. Ray Franci: who pitched the last inning, was nicked for a scratch hit, but held the Pels off though he walked Harrington, first man up. Harrington went to second on a bunt by Luckey, to third on Ward's scratch hit to short and was caught at the plate in an attempted double steal.

The second was the only inning in which Gliatto was in serious trouble. Carlyle and Shirley cracked out clean singles right at the start, Gliatto struck out Ryan on three sharp curves, retired Lamotte on a pop fly to short and Whitney on an infield out.

HAKINESS is "nerves"- and nervousness may come from the wrong smoke. Smoke El Toro—the cigar that's good for your nerves. El Toros never get on your nerves. The reason is no secret. El Toros are made of the mildest, smoothest, finestflavored tobacco leaf in the world. This is tobacco grown and ripened in the same tropical climate as Havana, but given a wonderful flavor all its own by the ideal soil conditions of Porto Rico.

And because El Toros are so well-made, they have the lip-comfort of a 25c Havana. Long filler, 100% machine made - 100% sanitary. And because cigars from Porto Rico come duty free, El Toros cost 5c instead of much more.

STATE SHOOT WILL ATTRACT MANY ENTRIES

Georgia Trapshooters Will Meet at Augusta May 11, 12 and 13.

AUGUSTA, Ga., April 29.—An attractive program is being arranged by A. L. Ellas, secretary of the Augusta Gun Club where the Georgia state trapshooting tournament will be staged May 11, 12 and 13, according to word sent to the Amateur Trapshooting Association, with whom the fournament is registered.

This year's state shoot is expected to attract one of the largets entry lists in the history of Georgia trapshooting. The program will include several events for non-resident shooters and marksmen from Tennessee, South Carolina, Alabama and Florida have signified their intention of being on hand.

Vassa Cates, of Brunswick, won the Vassa Cates, of Brunswick, won the singles championship in 1930 and will be on hand to defend his title. W. H. Lanier, of Augusta, is the defending doubles champion; C. A. Brannon, of Albany, is the handicap titleholder; Mrs. F. F. Rodgers, of Griffin, is the ladies champion, while H. N. Alford, of Atlanta, copped the all-around honors last year with 359 out of 400 targets. Paul R. Earle, of Starr. S. C., was high over all with 636 out of 700 clays. 700 clays.

At the coming tournament a five-man team will be named to represent Georgia at the Brand American Handicap tournament, scheduled at the permanent home of the Amateur Trapshooting Association, here, August 24 to 29. This team will compete against similar organizations from every state in the union, Canada and the Panama canal zone.

The Amateur Trapshooting Association is offering valuable trophies for the singles, doubles, handicap and all-around events on the state tournament program and a ladies trophy in event three or more of the fair sex compete.

Reports from other state tournaments indicate 1931 will be a banner year for trapshooting and the Georgia High in a straight set match to Rivtournament is expected to break all former attendance records.

ture expert who, for several years, has trained Ruth and kept him in condition during the off months, has been going to the apartment twice a day with a double purpose. First, he has been giving the injured limb gentle treatments and, secondly, he has by massage and such exercises as Ruth can take in bed, endeavored to keep the home run king from getting out of condition during his enforced rest. Left to himself, Ruth takes on weight quickly.

"Of course, looking at that leg" says McGovern, "you might think that Babe wouldn"t be back in the game for a month. It sure looks like a flock of black eyes all in one place. But I believe we are going to get him out within a few days. As soon as the soreness goes away, the discoloration won't make any diffeernce. If he had to, Ruth could limp around the house right now. I would not be surprised if he could get outdoors by Sunday. He might, if it is a nice day, go up and watch the ball game."

From what Mrs. Ruth says, I doubt whether she agrees with this optimistic view. The Babe and Artie McGovern are planning to let some reporters and photographers come around for a general check-up of the situation, but Mrs. Ruth isn't very strong for that, either. Sh. knows that the Babe underwent a good deal of pain and a nerve strain which drew on his reserve strength and she would like to keep him quiet as long as possible. Keeping Ruth quiet is like trying to control the tide. And, like all persons who have been in bed for several days and are beginning to regain their strength and well-being, the Babe undoubtedly feels stronger than he is.

News of the stores from the wom an's point of view will be carried in a new feature to be started by The Constitution next Sunday, under the supervision of Jacqulyn Jones. Mrs. Jones has had a number years experience in conducting shopping columns and is widely known in Atlanta. Under the heading of "Jacqulyn Sees the Shops," she will write the news of the stores in a way that will be unusually interesting to the women readers of The Constitution.

The shopping columns are planued to help the housekeepers in all phases of their buying. Mrs. Jones invites correspondence from those who want help and advice on these questions and plans to do shopping for anyone residing out of Atlanta.

A. B. Mobley, state superintendent of banks Wednesday night announced the state department of banking had taken over the affairs of the La-Grange Bank & Trust Co., at La-Grange, Ga.

Mr. Mobley said a notice on the door of the bank said continuous withdrawals caused the closing. The capital stock was $250,000.

Dr. Columbus Hanson Turner, St. pioneer citizen of Conyers, where he was a practicing physician for the last 59 years, died at the home of his nephew, Guy B. Turner, 54 Standish avenue, N. W., late Wednesday afternoon following a brief illness.

Dr. Turner had resided in Conyers almost all of his life and was a prominent member of the Conyers Methodist church. He had a wide circle of friends there and in Atlanta. His brother, Charles G. Turner, who died last year, at one time was a member of the Fulton county board of commissioners.

Services will be held at 3 o'clock Friday afternoon (eastern standard time) at the Conyers Methodist church, and interment will take place in the old Conyers cemetery. Ed Bond & Condon Co., which will have charge of arrangements, announced Wednesday night that the body would lie in state at the home in Conyers from 10 o'clock Friday morning until the time of the funeral.

Dr. Turner is survived by one brother, L. H. Turner, of Elberton; a sister, Mrs. A. C. McCalla, of Conyers: two sisters-in-law, Mrs. Charles G. Turner and Mrs. Ernest H. Turner, both of Atlanta; a brother-in-law, S. C. Stovall, of Atlanta, and n number of nieces and nephews.

RADIO WARNS WOMAN

ATHENS, Ga., April 22.—One thousand farmers of the Piedmont section of Georgia are expected to attend the "Legume and Livestock Day" program Thursday at the Georgia State College of Agriculture, according to Dr. Andrew M. Soule, president of the institution.

Designed to meet the emergency brought about by low price of cotton, the college will give practical demonstration and specific on how this can be done by the use of a livestock and legume farm program.

FAIN-FERGUSON WEDDING PLANS ANNOUNCED TODAY

Sunset Ceremony in Houston Honor Guest at Brookhaven Dance Mrs. Fincher Will Unite Popular Couple

Wide social interest is attached to the announcement made today of the wedding plans of Miss Carolyn Fain, daughter of Mrs. William Mercer Fain, and James Franklin Ferguson, of Houston, Texas. The wedding of this popular couple will take place Saturday, June 6. at 5 o'clock, at the home of the bride-elect's uncle and aunt, Mr. and Mrs.

o'clock, at the home of the bride-elect's uncle and aunt, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Eikel, in Houston, Texas. Bishop Quinn, of the Episcopal diocese of Houston, will perform the wedding ceremony.

Miss Fain will have as her matron of honor Mrs. R. H. Organ, of Atlanta, while her cousin, Miss Mary Augusta Eikel, of Houston, will act as maid of honor. She will be given in marriage by her uncle, Charles Eikel, of Houston, Texas. Mr. Ferguson will have F. M. Talbert, of Houston, as his best man. The wedding ceremony will be a beautiful altresco affair, taking place in the garden of the Eikel home. A short flight of steps leads through French doors from the solarium of the house into the lovely garden, where a velvety green lawn and flower-bordered paths form an effective setting for the sunset cermony. Malmaison and Marie Henriette roses will make the background for the wedding party, and urns of lilles and palms will be interspersed among the natural foliage. Following their marriage Mr. Ferguson and his bride will make their home in Omaha, Neb., where Mr. Ferguson's business interests will take them.

Mrs. Charles Eikel and Miss Mary Augusta Eikel are the guests of Miss Fain at her home on Elmwood drive. Miss Fain and Miss Eikel returned yesterday from a visit of a few days in Jacksonville, Fla. This attractive bride-elect and her guest are being feted at a number of social affairs prior to their departure for Houston. Miss Elkel and her mother will leave Saturday, while Miss Fain and Mrs. Fain will join them in two Miss Rae Neal, who acted as her sister's maid of honor, wore a becoming model of blue lace, made with an off-the-shoulder effect. It featured a twisted sash of pink and blue satin, and was tightly fitted on long, slender lines. Completing her costume were silk mitts and slippers in a matching shade, and a bouquet of Ophelia roses and swainsona.

The bridesmaids, who included Mrs. George Hendree Neal, Mrs. John W. Davis, Miss De Journette Veal and Mrs. Linton Howard, of New York city, were gowned in models of rose beige lace made on similar lines to the gown worn by the maid of honor. An additional color note was added by their girdles of bronze and rose beige satin which were entwined. Their silk mitts and slippers matched the tones of their gowns, and they carried bouquets of garden flowers, including snapdragons, roses and delphinium.

Little Miss Virginia Ragsdale, niece of the bridgeroom, who acted as flower girl, wore a dainty frock of blue chiffon, with pink rosebuds. Mr. Harwell had as his best man Samuel Hoyt Willson. The groomsmen included George Hendree Neal, Ralph Godby Walter Aichel and Dr. Leonard Smith. Acting as ushers were Fleming Ragsdale, John W. Davis, Benjamin Neely and John Nesbit.

Bride Enters.

The lovely bride, who was given in marriage by her mother, Mrs. Cornelia Mayfield Neal, was exquisitely gowned in ivory satin made on princess lines, which was especially becoming to her slender figure. A cluster of roses made of the satin was the only trimming on the graceful bertha which finished the neckline. Bias insets in rectangular shape and brief sleeves were other features of the bridal robes, and completing the costume were long kid gloves and satin slippers in matching ivory tones. Orange blossoms confined the capshaped tulle veil at either side and it fell into a long train. An interesting note of sentiment is attached to the fact that the veil was worn by Mrs. Edwin Ray Merry, of Boston, Mass., a relative of the bride. Her bouquet was of bride's roses, showered with lilies of the valley.

Mrs. Cornelia Mayfield Neal, mother of the bride, was gowned in a model of black chiffon elaborately beaded in rhinestones and made with a full ruffle sparkling with brilliants finishing the decolletage in the back. Her flowers were Talisman roses.

William Van Dresser, portrait artist of international fame, is a prominent guest in Atlanta for a few days en route from Palm Beach. Fla., to New York city. During his short to New York city. During his short sojourn here Mr. Van Dresser will do portraits of several well-known Atlantans. At present he is engaged in drawing the children of Mr. and Mrs. Donald McClain, of 20 Cherokee road. The artist maintains studios in Palm Beach, where he spends his winters, and Park avenue, New York. Last summer he and his wife, Jasmine Stone Van Dresser, well-known writer and member of the Authors' League of America, made an extended motor trip through Europe. While on the continent Mr. Van Dresser did the portraits of the principal actors in the Passion Play at Oberammergau. The Whitsuntide Play at Rothenburg ob der Tauber, Bavaria, provided him with several subjects of more than usual interest.

Mr. Van Dresser spent the summer at Loon Lake in the Adirondacks at the time President Coolidge had his summer camp at Paul Smith's. The artist was invited to do a portrait of the chief executive, who was so delighted with the result that he commissioned Mr. Van Dresser to do paintings of Mrs. Coolidge, his son Joha, and the two White House collies, Rob Roy and Prudence Prim.

After a week's stay at the Georgian Terrace Mr. and Mrs. Van Dresser will motor to Washington, D. C., and later to Philadelphia, where they will be the guests of Miss Katherine Clarke, of Palm Beach and Chestnut Hills. They will spend the summer at Banff Springs, Canada. sojourn here Mr. Van Dresser will do

TALKING IT OVER BY CAROLINE CHATFIELD

Problems of general interest submitted by readers will be dis-ssed in this column. Correspondence invited. Your name held in niidence. Write Miss Chatfield, care The Atlanta Constitution.

be of the outstanding programs of mal Music Week will be given by hoirs of the Peachtree Christian whom I am half-way in love with, a man who has said I am holding on to him for what I can get out of him? He has told mutual friends that I have borrowed money from him, which is not true. Why would he circulate such stories about me.'

Truly I don't know why he would circulate stories about you, but I do know that no man who respects a woman would put her in an ugly respect you, there is not a chance that he will ever love you. You should demand that he retract the statements about you if they are not true, and then have nothing more to do with him. I can't conceive of a self-respecting woman's allowing her-self to entertain any sentimental feeling about a man who maligns her to mutual friends. CAROLINE CHATFIELD.

DEAR MISS CHATFIELD:

I have been married nearly twenty years to a cruel man who makes me feel like an outcast. I work hard all day trying to keep my home neat and nice, for I do love a tidy home. I have a son who is very dear. He is always trying to cheer me up when he sees me looking downcast. My husband seldom speaks a kind word to me. When he comes home he picks up a papper or a book and reads until bedtime. When I suggest that he talk to me he says there is nothing to talk about and then he lapses into a sullen silence. When I complain of the treatment he gives me, he says if I don't like the way he does I can leave him and find another home. I have uo other home to go to and I feel like an outcast in this one. What can I do? KATE P. DEAR MISS CHATFIELD:

ANSWER:

A churlish man is hard to deal with and a person who won't talk and tell you his thoughts is the most disconcerting individual in the world. But this is what you have to deal with and the best way to do it is to fulfill your duties to him and look for your pleasure elsewhere. You are not an outeast in the home. It is as much your home as his. You work all the time to keep it clean and neat and if it is attractive you have made it so. You must school yourself to enjoy the fruit of your labors without reference to your husband.

You owe the young son a cheerful countenance when he is at home and I am afraid you are cheating him of that, as your husband is cheating you. It would be much worse if your husband spent his time quarreling with you instead of reading. You have peace except when you break it by reproaching him for his selfish conduct. And after all, if he is a churlish fellow his thoughts are not happy ones and you are probably better off without having to listen to them. Try a book yourself. Reading is a fine pastime for a woman at the close of a day of housework. You will get fresh ideas that render you independent of any your husband might bring in and you will certainly be a better companion for your son.

Helen Coyne Riley, director of the Atlanta Music Center, who will sing a number of modern French and Spanisl folk songs. She will be accompanied by Mrs. Charles Chalmers at the plano. Radio Reporter.
GOOD MORNING, EVERYBODY: GOOD MORNING, EVERYBODY:
There appears to be some sinister rumors going the rounds these days.
Just how well justified they are I would not presume to say; but nevertheless, there are comments here and there which cannot be overlooked in the world of radio gossip. Maybe you have heard some of them yourself; or, if not, perhaps you have some beliefs on the subject to which they refer.

These rumors would indicate that those uttering them are of the opinion that radio's pre-eminent entertainers are "slip-ping." I refer, of course, to Amos 'n' Andy; and within the last few days I have heard several bits of comment which does not compare favorably with the former com-pliments that tinkled day by day for this well-known pair.

DO YOU THINK that Amos 'n' DO YOU THINK that Amos 'n' Andy's nightly programs are as sprightly and genuinely entertaining as they formerly were? . . In a barbershop yesterday I heard a customer complaining rather bitterly that "Amos 'n' Andy ain't what they used to be!" He went on to support his theory, citing what I interpreted as an alleged stagnation of the dialogs of late.

On a street car Wednesday, two other listeners apparently were discussing the same subject. "They're letting things slide, it seems to me," one of the men on the long front seat explained. "It used to be that there was a good bit of interesting stuff every night, and there was always something doing; but lately there's been no pep to the program at all."

HIS COMPANION didn't like the

There may be something to what the man said regarding the Ruby Taylor character in Amos 'n' Andy skit. Perhaps Amos 'n' Andy are getting ready to let her die out of existence in their nightly dialogs. . . And perhaps it would be just as well, although it would fall far short, to hundreds of thousands of listeners, of the intended dramatic climax.

HERETOFORE there has been no HERETOFORE there has been no criticism of the Amos 'n' Andy programs. Their great popularity is sufficient testimony there. But oftentimes the weakest parts of the boys' dialogs have been those in which Amos, lovesick for his faithful Ruby; or Andy, head-over-heels enamored of Madame Queen, has gone just a little bit far into the mush and syrup for listeners,

In other words, this has been due simply to the brilliant acting ability of the pair. Their dialog is just so natural to the southern negro speech that, when they become involved in their affaires d'amour—with its consequent sweet talk (this "honey" and "sugar" business!) that it is not quite within the realm of humorous entertainment. It has a tendency to become disgusting.

Friends of members of the club are invited. This is a part of the National Music Week celebration in Decatur.

Fidelis Class.

The Fidelis class of the Capitol Avenue Baptist church will hold its business meeting Monday evening, May 4, at 6:30 o'clock in the primary room. A special invitation is extended to past and present members of the class. A special program has been arranged for the evening.

Now Andy's progress with Madame Queen has been different altogether. It always has been something that can be laughed with and at—not evoking the rather self-conscious titter that Amos' affairs have. Andy, portraying the irresponsible type of negro who falls for anything wearing a skirt, manages to keep his position so ludicrous that his love affairs are humorous and burlesque. But the affair between Amos and Ruby Taylor seems too much of a Venus and Apollo affair for the negro character.

AT ANY RATE, something must be happening; because, although Amos 'n' Andy have been on the air nightly (and recently twice daily) for more than a thousand nights, it is only during the recent three or four days that I've heard any adverse comment whatsoever. Maybe you will say that they are tired; that they have to maintain such a rigorous schedule as to dry them out.

ute dialog for more than three years, the fact remains that very seldom does this dialog actually cun over 12 minut:. The commercial announcement that goes with it often will amount to three and a half minutes, and the slow-spoken characters, I feel sure, do not together deliver more than 1,800 to 2,000 words within that time.

THAT IS A LARGE number of words—yes. But it is divided between two men; and the Amos 'n' Andy program does not depend on plot or action for its maintenance. In fact. with the exception of the Madame Queen trial, and a few other episoles, the adventures of the boys consist of their chats about this and that; or with Andy always headed for new difficulties, and Amos trying to keep him straight.

Just how long the course of Ruby Taylor's illness will run is highly speculative. It already has been drawn out pretty thin. and, as I reported the street car passenger as saying, the boys' idea may be to kill her off. Only the future will bring that out, and perhaps snap Amos 'n' Andy back into some of their pristine spontaneity.

What woman could have been with him that night, or rather that morning after Greta Halkett—Greta—nom de Dien, could Greta have fired that abot? Why, what reason would she have for killing the man whom Paris accredited to her as her lover? They had not had a quarrel. Besides—Ravel shrugged his shoulders as he paced up and down his studio—Greta Halkett would be there.

Ravel felt Judas-like as he welcomed Greta that afternoon. She was looking her loveliest in a fur coat that shoulders as he paced up the fairness of her skin and hair, and she smiled very charmingly as she explained that Ronald was desolate that he could not accept the invitation also, but that he would be at the newspaper offices and would try to call for her in a short time.

Feodor Staire, he had known him for years.
Staire was deeply in love with the sister of the woman whom Gigi seemed to accuse. There was no mistaking that love. He made no secret of it. He was within a week of his marriage and, as far as Ravel knew, there were no stray corners in his life, or bypaths that might have led to such a scene as this; and Ravel was certain in his own mind that not only was he innocent, but that he knew who had committed the crime.

Greta had certainly been with D'Arblaye all the fatal evening. She had left the opera with him. He, Ravel, had known that she had been questioned by the police, and that the police were satisfied with her explanation. The concierge also had been forced to admit that Monsieur Staire had seemed quite at his ease when he spoke to him outside his lodge at 5 o clock in the morning.

It was possible, of course, that Greta had murdered D'Arblaye, It was also possible that Feodor was shielding her; but how, and why? How did be, Paul Ravel, know? And if it were so, how was this miscarriage of justice to be put right?

Feodor Staire would never consent to free himself at the cost of his friend's wife and the sister of the girl he loved, even if he could. Having one been accused of the crime, he must expiate it, unless some external influence took charge and closered him. Ravel had all a Frenchman's susceptibility to beauty, but he also had a Frenchman's susceptibility to beauty, but he also had a Frenchman's susceptibility to beauty, but he also had a Frenchman's susceptibility to beauty, but he also had a little annoval to sacrifice Staire to shelter her. It was somewhere about three in the morning, so he was unable to send the note at once, but now that he had formulated some course of action he felt more at his ease. At least now he had set the ball rolling. How would Greta react to the test he intended to make?

ATLANTA SPOT COTTON. Atlanta spot cotton closed steady, 5 points down to 9.25, re-ceipts 181, shipments 553, stocks 165,167.

NEW YORK, April 29.—(AP)—The action of the stock market appeared to be the dominating influence in cotton today. Rallies of a few points from an opening decline followed a little buying on unfavorable features in the weekly report of the weather burners that price award again owing bureau, but prices eased again owing to the weakness in stocks and reached the lowest point of the day in the late trading.

July sold off to 10.12 or 10 points net lower and within 7 points of the season's low record established last December and closed at the lowest. The general market closed barely steady at net declines of 10 to 14 points.

The opening was steady 1 to 6 points lower in response to the indifferent showing of Liverpool and the active positions soon showed fiet losses of 7 to 10 points under selling which was evidently promoted by the showing of the stock market. The weekly report of the weather bureau seemed to make rather a bullish impression on sentiment, particularly in its references to recent rains and low temperatures and prices stiffened up several points on covering which was probably combined with some trade buying for a rally.

The demand was readily supplied on rallies of 5 or 6 points, however, and

MADE IN NEW ORLEANS

NEW ORLEANS, April 29.—(P)—
Trading in cotton was rather sluggish here today and the course of prices was downward. The depressing influences were lower cables and weak, ness in stocks. While there was a slight rally at one time owing to a bullish weekly weather and crop summary it failed to hold. Following an opening decline of 1 to 4 points on the poor cables, prices continued to ease off all morning with stocks until around noon values showed declines of all to 16 points compared with yesterday's close. The weekly report showed low temperatures which had damaged young cotton and retarded germination of seed. The market rallied nearly 10 points during the middle of the afternoon on some recovery in stocks but eased off again practically to the lows when stocks tuned weak. The market closed easier showing net declines for the day of 10 to 16 points.

Liverpool cables came in 2 to 4 points worse than due and private cables stated that there was scattered to state of the recovery and the course of the log of the points.

Liverpool cables came in 2 to 4 penny points worse than due and private cables stated that there was scattered liquidation. Manchester cabled that cloth sales were below production and are forcing lower prices. First trades here showed losses of 1 to 4 points and after a slight rally prices eased off rather steadily with stocks until July traded down to 10.12, off 11 points from the previous close, while October dropped to 10.43, down 16 points.

A private authority reported that the crop had made normal progress and that the probable decrease in acreage would be about 10 per cent.

BEER & CO.

NEW YORK, April 29.—With Liverpool cables 2 to 4 English points worse than due, the local cotton market opened 1 to 4 points lower, the market continuing slowly downward after the opening under the influence of a declining stock market. Trading was only moderately active pending release of government weekly summary waich was considered unfavorable and steadled the market. There was some May liquidation which was promptly absorbed by spot firms. Co-speratives sold July but the market was well supported by Liverpool and trade buying and short covering, and prices ruled steady during most of the late morning, and while most of the offerings were cubsorbed by the trade there was some buying on continued rains in the west and some unfavorable private crop reports, one of them from north Georgia saying the reduction in acreage will be from 20 to 30 per cent in that section. Prices declined further in the late afternoon with the stock market and closed with net losses for the day of 9 to 18 points.

night decline of about three points, Further selling in Steel continued throughout the day and the opening price proved a high for the day.

Naturally this continuing weakness in Steel proved upsetting to the balance of the list and there were declines in a number of other issues. At times during the day the ntilities were rather heavily sold, but this group held its ground better than cid the industrials. The rails on this occasion proved the strongest part of the market. It appears that the railroad stocks are more nearly sold out than almost any other group. Furthermore the carloading figures at present are making a more favorable showing than was the case a month ago. Altogether at the moment the rails seem to present perhaps the soundest onying opportunities. There were specialities which continued to show strength against the market, these including Kroger Grocery, some of the stora stocks and the gold ming issues, particularly Noranda and Alaska Juneau.

COURTS & CO.

NEW YORK. April 29.—The extremely disappointing first quarter earnings statement of United States Steel swept the market generally to new low levels today. Opening prices were generally lower, the industrial ayerages showing a loss of 24 points from the previous close. After still further decline during the morning there was a feeble attempt at a rally in the early afternoon. Renewal of selling pressure in the final hour speedily cancell this rally and, although a few stocks neld above previous low points for the day, tha late trading presented a picture of fairly general weakness.

nine-point plunge by United States

Steel common sent waves of liquidation through the stock market today.

Other issues suffered much less severely than the old industrial favorite, so that the average decline was held to 2.4 points, less than many other breaks the market has had this year, but it was enough to drop the Standard Statistics-Associated Press composite price fractionally under the low of last December to a new minimum since the summer of 1927. Sales totaled 3,200,000 shares.

Wall Street certainly found no cheer in the steel corporation's quarterly statement, and apparently was unwilling to believe that declaration of the regular dividend meant the maintenance of the payment in the event carnings continue unfavorable. United States Steel's dip into surplus to meet the dividend voted yesterday is only about three-quarters of a million dollars less than the deficit for the entire year 1921 when the them is constructed to the payment in the steel 2 7-8 on a 6,000-share sale. Offerings of the stock increased steadily, although the price stendied occasionally, especially in the last hour when the only worthwhile rally of the day occurred. However, there was another break at the close which sent the quotation to 115. It finished at 1151-4, off 9 1-8, Bethlehem was hamered vigorously in anticipation of a dividend reduction at tomorrow's meeting and closed 65-S off. The loss in Westinghouse was only a point less.

Coffee, Sugar, Rice.

NEW YORK, April 20.—Row sugar was unchanged today and the only saies confirmed were those made late the previous day consisting of 90.000 bags of Philippines and 10.000 bags of Porto Rican for first half May arrival at 3.20. There appeared to be more duty-frees available at this level today in the same positions, but refiners showed no further interest, although they would have paid this price for second half May arrivals, but these were held at fractionally higher.

Futures were irregular, but generally steady, closing at 1 point decline to 1 point advance. Trading was only of small proportions, with an absence of any aggressive selling and prices responding to small covering orders and trade buying against sales in the spot market. The market opened 1 point lower to 1 points higher but soon firmed up on covering and at one time was generally 2 points above the previous close on near positions, while later months were 1 point net higher, with the exception of October, which was 1 point lower fhroughout the seasion. The early steadiness seemed to be influenced by the better London cables but the demand was not aggressive and prices eased off from the best under liquidation or realizing. There were 12 May notices issued, but they appeared to be readily stopped and and filtitle effect. Approximate sales were only 12,250 tons. May closed 1.18, July 1.28, Esptember 1.34, December 1.42, Januar 1, 144, March 1.50.

Reflued was unchanged at 4.40 for fine granulated with second-hands available at less. The withdrawal demand was fair but his wbusiness was light and supplied through second-hands.

stranger," warned Mrs. Tellog Wing.
"Don't take chances. Taking chances has cost many a bird his life. It doesn't pay. It never did pay, and it never will pay. Don't do it."

Now it was that very afternoon while their parents were away that one of the young Flickers noted a feathered stranger flying swiftly and headed straight for that telegraph pole. He gave the alarm and dodged around the pole. His brothers and sisters did the same thing, all but the bonster. He waited to see who this swift-flying stranger might be.

"He can't be a Hawk, for I've been to have a Hawk is a very large bird," thought the young Flicker. "Anyway, there is plenty of time to dodge if he looks dangerous."

But there wasu't plenty of time. He hadn't realized how fast that stranger was coming, and when in sudden terror he started to dodge around that pole it was too late. Sharpskin the Hawk, for that is who it was, struck him and the last his brothers and sisters saw of him he was held fast in Sharpshin's claws as the latter disappeared in the woods across the road. A DREADFUL THING HAPPENS. BY THORNTON W. BURGESS.

Children who do not obey Are in danger every day. —Old Mother Nature.

The five young Flickers who first came out of the home in the telegraph pole to learn to climb had become clever in getting about on that pole by the time the other four ventured out. It was surprising how rapidly some of them could dodge around that pole. It was great fun to play hide-and-seek around that pole. In playing the young Flickers were learning how to use their feet and tails and how to dodge, most important things to learn. They all thought the Great World, or such of it as they could see from that telegraph pole, a very wonderful place.

that telegraph pole, a very wonderful place.

Now one of the young Flickers was something of a leader. He had been the first out of the nest and the first to climb to the top of the telegraph pole. The others rather looked up to him and tried to do whatever he did. This made him feel important, which is a very had way for any young person to feel. Gradually he grew to think he knew quite as much as his father and mother. He liked to show off, and when his parents were not there to see he did show off a lot.

"Whenever you see a strange bird larger than yourselves, no matter if he does look harmless, get behind this pole and keep it between you and the

Dr. Robert L. Levy, head of the Paris to the home of Mrs. Reld's niece, Countess Granard.

Dr. Robert L. Levy, head of the cardian department of the Presbyterian Medical Center, New York, flew here from Paris yesterday in an effort to save Mrs. Reid's life, but he found her condition hopeless.

She died this morning at Rosenary, the home of her daughter, Lady Ward. She had arrived in France scarcely a week ago ill from a chill contracted during her voyage across the Atlantic.

She came here on last Saturday in the belief that a visit to southern France would improve her health, but her condition grew steadily worse. Her daughter, her son-in-law and her personal secretary were at her bedside when she died.

Mrs. Reid's husband, former ambassador from the United States to Great Britain, died in 1912.

Britain, died in 1912.

AMONG BEST KNOWN

WOMEN OF U. S., EUROPE

NEW YORK, April 29.—(P)—Mrs.

Whitelaw Ogden Reid, widow of the one-time ambassador to Great Britain, who died today in France, was by virtue of her wealth and social prominence one of the best-known women on two continents.

The daughter of a millionaire, the late Davius Ogden Mills, Elizabeth Ogden grew up in a social environment of which she was to become the leader in later life, when she became an intimate of royalty in Europe and Asia.

To the very last of her 73 years of active life, Mrs. Reid continued to travel and keep busy. It was mainly a desire to inspect the new plant of the Paris edition of the New York Herald Tribune, and to visit her daughter, that prompted this trip— her last. She sailed from New York her last. She sailed from New York April 15 on the Leviathan.

Just prior to Mrs. Reid's departure the King and Queen of Siem availed themselves of her offer to occupy her Westchester palace, Ophir Hall, as their residence during their majestics stay in the United States.

In 1881 she married Whitelaw Reid, editor of the New York Tribune. Several years later Reid became the owner, but in later years the paper consolidated with the Herald, to become the Herald Tribune, which is still owned by the Reid estate. SATURDAY

TARZAN, LORD OF THE JUNGLE No. 70

Prince Gobred spoke the usual charge to a contesting knight that ended with a blessing "upon thee and thy sword." But Blake did not reply in the accepted form. Instead he said: "To the honor and glory of Nimmr, and to the protection of my princess, I pledge my sword and my life." From his expression, the prince seemed not displeased at these unusual words and the haughty look upon Guinalda's face softened.

KIRKLAND'S JURY IS BEING CHOSEN

VALPARAISO, Ind., April 29 .-(A)-Widespread publicity of his conviction at a formal trial and fine farming weather slowed up jury selection today in the second trial of Virgil Kirkland for the murder of Arlene Draves at a "flaming youth" party in Gary.

Of the first 14 veniremen question ed, five were dismissed for holding an unchangeable opinion on Kirkland's guilt or innocence, while two more were excused for necessary farm work. The prosecution's first questions shot at the jury box indicated the death penalty would again be asked. Two jurors were dismissed by Judge Grant Crumpacker after declarations against capital punishment.
